PRESS RELEASE

A meeting of the British Isles Council was held by Zoom to discuss the British Isles Championships due to be held in England in November 2021 and the Top Team Championship also in England in October 2021.

The Council agreed that preparations should be made for the British Isles Championships in November and that venues would be sought acknowledging that at this moment in time countries are in different stages of recovery from the pandemic.. Depending on Government advice on safe capacity, the Council may need to reconsider the format of the Championships as the safety of the players and officials is paramount.

The Top Team Championship is now provisionally scheduled to take place at the end of January 2022.

The next update will be in late May.
